Basic functions such as page orientation and paper size is available from the first tab on this menu. Offset is also available if you are printing multiple copies, this helps separating the copies after print.

Output Methods include basic 'Print' and also 'Proof Print' which prints the first copy of a batch operation, the printer will pause until you confirm you are happy with the output.

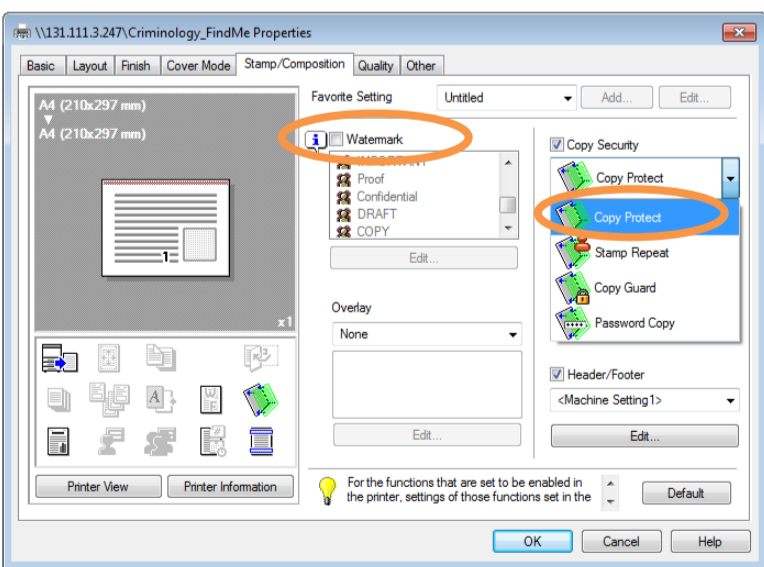

Duplex options are found under the second tab along the top [Layout]. Print Type allows for single and double sided printing. Combination options allow for the printing of multiple pages on one (presentation slides etc).

From the Layout tab, there are also Binding Position options from the drop down list.

Under the Finish tab, you can select for pages to be stapled upon printing, some will appear with a caution mark depending on the binding options selected under Layout.

Under Quality, colour and resolution options can be selected. Please note that the printers will only charge you 'colour' prices for pages that have colour on them, and each other page (even within the same job) will only be charged as black and white sheets.

Under Stamp/Composition you can select if you want to add protection watermarks and security measures.

This will open a settings panel, where you can select date and time stamps.

To add a watermark (proof/draft etc) simply select the Watermark check box and select the mark you want to add.

To add Copy Protect options, select from the drop down list.

Under Detail Settings you can change the frequency of watermarks and colour of the mark.
