Institute of Criminology Public Seminar Series

Thursday 20th June 2013, 5.30pm

Seminar Room B3, Institute of Criminology,
Sidgwick Avenue, Cambridge, CB3 9DA

A drinks reception in the basement foyer will follow this seminar for attendees

There has recently been a number of calls for a public criminology - although the term is ill-defined - as if such a criminology were quite novel. A vigorous public criminology did indeed once exist in the United Kingdom in the 1960s and 1970s but it presented problems both to the policy-maker and the scholar, and it became largely forgotten. It is on those problems and that neglect that the seminar will focus.

Paul Rock is Emeritus Professor of Sociology at the London School of Economics.

This seminar is free, and is open to all interested in attending, with no ticket required.
